Simplicity is beauty.

Introducing a new ledgestone-style Building Stone designed to be simple and unique. Our first product to be laid in a coursed pattern, Urban Ledgestone is incredibly easy and efficient to install. To achieve the coursed pattern, one size of stone is laid in one or more rows, followed by one or more rows of the second size. Masons can pick automatically from skids, working quickly not having to maintain a specific pattern.

Alternatively, Urban Ledgestone can be installed in a more traditional ashlar pattern. Either configuration provides a crisp and modern result, elegant in the simplicity of long, straight lines.
